AS it is become the Practice of Bankers in many Parts of the Kingdom to allow Interest for Money lodged in their Hands from Three to Four per Cent. and to charge Interest for Money advanced by them at Five per Cent. and as their Accounts frequently consist of Two Hundred Articles, for which Interest is to be calculated; the following Tables, the Author presumes, will be particularly acceptable to Bankers and others, because they will save much Time and Trouble, and are, besides, more accurate than any the Author has yet seen.

To shew clearly the Method of using these TABLES, the following Specimen of a Banker's Account of Interest is inserted.

BANKERS ACCOUNT of INTEREST at 5 per Cent.

Interest required £17 13 1

This is a fifth part only of a Banker's Account for 12 Months nearly: the residue of the Account is calculated at 3 per Cent. and the amount of the Calculation as found by these Tables is in the whole Account about Four Shillings more than the Amount found by Thompson's Tables.

EXPLANATION.

IN this Account the first column contains the Principal; the second column the number of Days; and the third column the Principal multiplied by the Days.

Cast up the third column, which amounts to £128,846 for one Day, search the Tables for the Interest of that Sum, and the Work is done

It may be needless to mention that the Interest of £6,600 for one Day is equal to the Interest of £600 for 11 Days.

This Account is free from the incumbrance of Shillings and Pence in the principal Sums. The number of Days with the Table in page 97, answers the purpose accurately enough.

Explanation and Use.

This Table is calculated to save the time and trouble requisite for multiplying the Shillings and Pence of the articles in an Interest Account, and it will be found to approach sufficiently near to the truth.

In accounts consisting of but few articles in the space of 6, 9, or 12 months, this Table may not be quite accurate; but if it be thought of sufficient importance, the inaccuracy may be avoided by multiplying the Shillings and Pence in each article.

The use of the Table is seen in the Preface, where the Interest is for 61 Days, at 5 per. Cent. which is taken to be 1d. that being the Interest of the nearest number of Days.

T A B L E S

Shewing the Value of the Parts of an Hundred Weight, beginning at One Pound, at different Prices from 2s. to £2 4s. per Hundred Weight; and the Value of One Hundred Weight and One Ton at different Prices per Pound.

THE Author having frequently had occasion to calculate the value of the Parts of a Hundred Weight, and having found the want of a set of Tables for the purpose, he many years ago formed these Tables for his own use, and he now offers them to the Public with the hope that they may be found useful.

These Tables may serve if the price be given by the Ton Weight, for 2s. per Hundred is equal to £2 per Ton, 2s. 6d. to £2 10s. &c. &c.

THE following Table will be useful for finding the Tonnage of Ships, every eighth part of an inch being admitted in the dimensions, and the persons employed by Government always working with four places of Decimals.

In the act of parliament of the 13th of Geo. III. chap. 74, sect. 1, the extreme length of any Ship is taken by a line drawn from the back of the main Stern-post at the upper edge of the Keel, to the perpendicular from the outside of the main Stem under the Bowspit.

The extreme breadth is taken from outside to outside above, or below the binds, clear of doubling in the widest part.

R U L E.

Take $\frac{3}{5}$ of the extreme breadth from the extreme length, multiply the remainder by the breadth, and that product by the half breadth, then divide the last product by 94, and the quotient is the tonnage.

In an Act passed last Session for the further Increase and Encouragement of Shipping and Navigation, Clause 14, is given the following Method of ascertaining the Tonnage of Ships afloat.

DROP a plumb-line over the Stern of the Ship, and measure the distance between such line and the after-part of the Stern-post, at the load water-mark; then measure from the top of the said plumb-line, in a parallel direction with the water to a perpendicular point over the load water-mark at the fore part of the main Stem, subtracting from such measurement the above distance; the remainder will be the Ship's extreme length, from which is to be deducted three inches for every foot of the load draught of water for the rake abaft, and also three-fifths of the Ship's breadth for the rake forward, the remainder shall be esteemed the just length of the Keel to find the Tonnage; and the breadth shall be taken from outside to outside of the plank, in the broadest part of the Ship, either above or below the main Wales, exclusive of all manner of sheathing or doubling, that may be wrought on the side of the Ship; then multiplying the length of the Keel for Tonnage by the breadth so taken, and that product by half the breadth, and dividing by ninety-four, the quotient shall be deemed the true contents of the Tonnage.
